Are your finances safe? Are they invested in the best stocks? Is your bank the safest place for you to keep your resources?

The more we approach the end of all things, the more uncertain our life condition is! The Bible reveals an honest picture of what waits for us in the very end. Peter says that “the elements will be destroyed by fire, and the earth and everything done in it will be laid bare” (2 Pet. 3:10). Our possessions will be of no value at that time!

Peter invites his readers not to take these things lightly, but to undergo some fundamental changes in priorities and outlook: “What kind of people ought you to be? You ought to live holy and godly lives”, he said (2 Pet. 3:11).

These predicted events in the near future will result in irreparable losses for those who are unprepared. Those losses will supersede any previous crises experienced by humanity, like recessions, financial depression, or hyperinflation.

NARRATION

CN. 05

Consider hyperinflation, for example. Prices could double in less than 24 hours. In some places, individuals would go to the grocery store carrying cash in a basket over their heads or on a wheelbarrow. Worried and angry people would line up for hours in front of banks to withdraw their savings only to hear "request denied." As a result, the population and investors would lose faith in the local currency, and barter of goods and services might become the key strategy! Many would go to the black market trying to exchange their money for stronger currencies. Some countries would exchange their devalued currency for new currency, or start using foreign currencies locally.

CN. 06

But how would we exchange our assets effectively for others that are safer and more profitable? Based on what Jesus said, we don't need to go to the black market. "But store for yourselves treasures in heaven," He said, "where moths and vermin do not destroy, and where thieves do not break in and steal." Matthew 6:20. Whatever will not be finally put there, will be lost forever!

CN. 07

Paul also advises his readers how to store up a good foundation for the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life. He says that they need "to do good, to be rich in good deeds, and to be generous and willing to share." (1 Tim. 6:18).

CN. 08

This week, as you return your tithe and Promise (which is your regular and systematic offering), you have another opportunity to be a blessing to others. At the same time, you are exchanging your perishable resources for the eternal ones. May we put our desires last, and God first.
